Alaska Royal Rangers Training Camp

Purpose of the camp is to provide opportunities of activities and ministry to all ages for the purpose of reaching, teaching, keeping and mentoring people in the teachings of Jesus Christ

Rules, Policies and Procedures

Purpose: To establish guidelines, rules, policies and procedures for operation and use of the facilities.

The Land and Resources:

To be developed in line with a comprehensive plan approved by the Royal Rangers Network Staff. The objective of development is to provide access to the land and establish activity sites that are fun and challenging and provide opportunities for Christian Ministry.

Camp Rules:

Hunting and Wildlife:

No Hunting is allowed in the camp with the exception of big game hunting during the hunting season and not during any scheduled camps. No small game hunting is authorized with the exception of specific culls to populations deemed excessive by the camp supervisor. Small game is to be preserved for the enjoyment of campers to observe throughout the camp.

Harassment of any wildlife will not be tolerated.

Equipment and Electrical Generation:

All equipment is off limits to operation by non-authorized personnel. Use of the generators will be by contract with the camp supervisor. The camp supervisor will determine if anyone has the skill and training to maintain, fuel, shut down and start up, any and all generation equipment. Contract for the use of electrical generation will include the responsibility of the equipment, record keeping, and repair due to overloads or misuse by the lessee. Usually the use of electrical generation will require a certified technician on site.

The generator can't handle extremely large loads. Please do not use electric heaters including ones that are in trailers or campers. Please only use one coffee pot at a time, if it is electrical. When you are using the sound system at the chapel the well pump must be turned off or it will cause interference with the system.

The restrooms are for that purpose only. No foreign materials, including feminine products, should be put in it. They charge extra when they pump it to get these materials out.

All tents and cabins inside the FCF village are off limits to all camps and campers without express permission of the owner. These are all private lodges. The outhouse is the only exception to this.

No campers are allowed near the sawmill, conex, generator, or shop area without express permission.

Campers:

Campers will follow the “buddy system” when in camp. When moving through the camp, all campers will remain with one or more other campers “buddies” or staff.

Campers will be apprised of the dangers of the site including potential natural and man made hazards to include animals, trees, water, weather, poisonous plants, etc. Campers will be told how to react to the sighting of various types of animals.

Campers will be advised what to do if they locate unattended tools, guns, knives, matches, lighters and anything else they perceive to be dangerous to others especially children.

Campers are responsible for the set up and cleanliness of their campsites.

Campers will maintain the camp in a clean manner and pick up any waste they see whether it is theirs or not. Waste that is too heavy to move should be brought to the attention of the camp staff.

Campers will refrain from smoking, other tobacco product use, the use of drugs, alcohol, or anything not prescribed by a medical doctor.

Campers will list all prescription drugs on their applications and surrender them to their campsite supervisors or the health and safety officer as necessary for proper and safe distribution of medications.

Campers will maintain proper social decorum while on the premises with proper clothing of a conservative nature.

Campers will only use firearms at the firing range. All firearms must be approved for use at the camp by the camp supervisor. Use of the firing range must be in the presence of a certified range officer. Certification can be by the State of Alaska, National Rifle Association, Gun Club Organizations, or a military Range Officer.
